English for hairdressers

1. Greet her, ask her to sit and ask what she wants

Hi! I'm not sure what I want.	That's okay. Let's look at some ideas together.

Hi, welcome! Please have a seat.	What would you like to do today?	Do you have a photo of what you like?

2. Suggest a cut and check how much to take off

What do you think? Should I go shorter?	I think a bob would suit you. What do you think?
But not too short, please.	Don't worry. I'll take off two inches, and I can always cut more.
Ouch, the water is a little hot.	Sorry about that! Is this better?

What do you think about a bob?	How much would you like me to take off?	I'll go slowly. I can always cut more.
Let's wash your hair first. Is the water okay?	Are you going anywhere nice this weekend?

3. Show her the back in the mirror and ask if she likes it

Can I see the back?	Of course. Here, take a look in the mirror.
I love it! It's not too short.	I'm glad you like it.

Here's the back. Take a look in the mirror.	Do you like it?	Is the length okay?

4. Tell her how to style it at home

How do I style it at home?	Dry it with a round brush. A little cream helps too.

You can dry it with a round brush.	A little cream helps. It's up to you.	Don't wash it every day.

5. Say the price and book her next visit

How much is it?	That's forty-five dollars.
Can I come back in six weeks?	Sure. Let me check the calendar.

That's forty-five dollars.	Would you like to book your next visit?	Six weeks from now works well for this cut.
Good luck tomorrow!
